A regular meeting of Iroquois Tribe, Red Men, Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock. A full attendance is requested. A. Robertson, C. of R.

F. A. Slayton and Will Page are attending the Bradford fair, which opens today. Mr. Slayton has two horses and Page three horses entered for the races there.

F. J. Brownscombe, superintendent of the Montpelier schools, has returned to Montpelier after attending the summer school at Columbia University. During the summer the East State street school building was fumigated to remove all traces of scarlet fever. It was there that the chief trouble with the disease was experienced.

C. C. Warren and L. Bart Cross leave Montpelier about 8.30 Thursday morning in Mr. Warren's automobile for Boston, from which city they are to sail for Europe, where they will make an automobile tour of three months or longer. The crate for the automobile in which it is to be shipped across the Atlantic, has already been sent to Boston.

It has been learned that a mistake was made in the lettering on Joel Foster's monument in Green Mount cemetery in Montpelier. The date of death was Feb. 9, 1903, instead of 1902, as it reads on the monument. The inscription prevails that the letterer cut the inscription according to the copy furnished by the committee of Montpelier citizens. The members of the committee say that they relied on others for the information regarding the date.

Government of the People.

We are hearing so much in these days about "government of the people," etc., that some of our readers will doubtless be pleased to have the exact quotation. Daniel Webster first used the expression in a speech delivered in Congress on Jan. 26, 1830, in which he said: "The people's government made for the people, made by the people and answerable to the people."

But the popular expression employed by Abraham Lincoln in a speech at Gettysburg on Nov. 19, 1863, in which he said: "That this nation under God shall not have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Cut this out and put it in your scrap book for future reference.—Richmond (Va.) Times Dispatch.

Two Bits Wasted.

Here's the story told by Fred Collier, which seems to indicate that the lid isn't on in Topeka:

"Here's to pay for them two drinks I stood yez off for last wake," said a local Irish character to the bartender of a Topeka drink emporium the other afternoon, handing the man in the white apron a quarter.

"Why, you don't owe me anything, do you?" queried the dispenser. "Oh, yes you do, I remember, now. It was last Thursday you got the drinks," he suddenly added.

"Why the devil didn't yez tell me yed forgotten I owed yez?" exclaimed the Irishman. "I could have saved that 25 cents."—Kansas City Journal.

His First Visit.

"Look here, Halton, why in creation did you lure me into buying that ticket for that lawn fete?"

"Why, did you pay out much?"

"Much! Why, they charged me 50 cents for a lemonade and a dollar for ice cream!"

"That was exorbitant."

"Then I was lured through the 'Maze of Mystery,' 'Witches' Caldron,' &c., and by the time they finished telling my fortune I didn't have a penny."

"That was tough."

"Oh, I could have recovered from that, but it was the sequel. When I reached home dead broke my wife accused me of playing poker and hasn't spoken to me since."—Chicago News.

A duel which was fought in Paris recently lasted nearly two hours on a half. There were 23 encounters, and as neither man was touched the seconds declared that the two opponents gave proof of an equal courage and insisted on reconciliation.

The man who operates the electrical switchboard which makes the biggest scenic display in the Coney Island spectacles has never seen the result of his work. He wants to see the show, but there is no one to take his place.

Prof. Staleman, principal physician of a great hospital in Berlin, estimates that between one-quarter and one-third of the diseases afflicting workmen in the great crowded districts in the Prussian capital are caused by the improper use of alcohol.

Nellie, the big lioness of the Chicago zoo, has been suffering from catarrh for three years, and is now completely blind. The physicians who have been watching her say that it is now time to operate, so an attempt is to be made to relieve the beast. Her keeper is to tie her feet and chloroform her before the work with the knife begins.

A passenger on an English railway train pulled the "communication cord" the other day and stopped the train. When the guard came to the compartment in which the cord had been pulled, he found a distracted woman passenger. She had been looking out of the window and had dropped her false teeth. She wished to go back and find them.

"A London society woman," according to report, "has a small white beribboned pig sitting beside her when she rides out in her automobile. Another woman automobilist is rarely seen on her car without her pet penguin, Aristides, which she frequently takes with her into shops, the intelligent creature carrying her handbag in his bill. Another delight in horned toads as tonneau pets."

Certain French astronomers have recently come to the conclusion that the solidification of the moon extends from the surface to the center, and not, as the American scientists think, from the center to the periphery. This view would modify various existing theories. Their conclusion is drawn from the examination of photographs executed at the observatory for reproduction in the new lunar atlas.

The Square Deal.

The has just been published a remarkable work entitled, "The Square Deal or the Business Searchlight." The authors are Herbert B. Mulford, Wall street correspondent, Financial Editor of the Chicago Evening Post, and Trumbull White, author of "The World's Progress," "Our New Possessions," etc.

That truth is often stranger than fiction is proven by the startling facts here given. The burning questions of the day are discussed under such headings as:

"Who owns the United States?"
"The truth about the Money Trust."
"How the public pays for it all."
"Standard Oil and wealth of the Rockefellers."

"What's what in business."
"The growth of the social vote."
"The scandal in life insurance."
"Wonders of the Industrial Age," etc.

Graft in Federal and public affairs generally, and the heroic fight against same are described. Type, photographs and paper are excellent. As a book of absorbing interest to read clear through, or as a work of reference, it will prove of great value to anyone who desires to be well posted on matters now being so earnestly discussed.

State Convention W. C. T. U.

The annual state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in Swanton September 27, 28, and 29.

It is estimated that it will be the largest convention the organization has ever held in the state and many visitors are expected.

An interesting programme is being prepared and efforts are being made to secure the services of two national organizers and lecturers; also of other interesting speakers and soloists.

The women of the different churches will assist the Swanton organization to entertain the guests during the convention.

Still Relying on Roosevelt.

London, Aug. 22.—The morning newspapers are not hopeful of the result of today's peace conference at Portsmouth and rather place reliance on President Roosevelt's efforts to secure the prolongation of negotiations than on any disposition of either side to concede something toward securing a peaceful settlement.

It is felt here that unless the President of the United States is able to prevent a complete collapse of the negotiations peace prospects are most remote, since if the present conference fails it will be difficult to persuade the belligerents to send plenipotentiaries to another conference.

Fervent hopes are expressed that a success may crown the President's efforts on which the fate of a million Russian and Japanese soldiers is depending.

The Daily Telegraph says editorially: "If President Roosevelt can keep the envoys in Portsmouth something will be gained but if he falls in the role of an honest broker, not in the Bismarckian sense but in the sense of one manifestly seeking no commission for himself or his country, who will succeed?"

Officials Not Disturbed by Injunction.

Little fear is felt by the officials of the Rutland Street railway and the Chittenden Power companies that the injunction granted Saturday in Hudson, N. Y., in favor of the depositors of the Merchants' Trust Co. and restraining the trust company from paying the Chittenden company $120,000, will disturb either the operation of the railway company or the construction of the power station.

It is understood that when J. G. White & Co., contractors, resumed work on the power station, after stopping operations, pending a settlement of the trust company's affairs, their legal advisers brought it about that the money necessary to complete the plant should be considered as a "special deposit." It is not supposed that the money was legally regarded as such prior to the bank's troubles, or the contractors would not have stopped work. As it is, the depositors will not be able to get at the money anyway.

It is considered possible, however, that at the hearing which will be held the 26th to determine whether the injunction shall be continued, that much of the inside history of the local companies will have to be told in court. Receiver Douglas Robinson probably will have to give exact status of the Chittenden Power Co. Even if the injunction is granted, it is thought unlikely that David Fox will be removed as receiver of the railway company.

How Is It.

This is the vacation season, when many a man who has nourished the idea that his business or his work could not possibly get along without him goes away for a week, a month, and comes back to find that some office boy has carried his work or business along as a side issue and taken very good care of it without in the least interfering with his own duties.

It is also the season when, after taking his vacation, the hard worked vacationist comes back to home and labor to rest up swearing that there is no rest like labor and no vacation like sticking to the bench and doing his daily task.—Denver Republican.

SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE.

Towns in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois Felt the Shocks.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 22.—Owensboro and Henderson, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., were shaken by an earthquake at 11.05 last night. Two distinct shocks were felt. Citizens of Owensboro were greatly frightened. Many rushed from their homes. No damage was done.

Buildings Were Shaken.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 22.—An earthquake occurred at 11.06 o'clock last night. It lasted about one minute and shook the strongest buildings in Cairo. The shock was preceded by a rumbling noise. Many persons were frightened and took refuge in the streets.

AGED COUPLE'S COURTSHIP.

John Hosmer and Mrs. Laura C. Eaton Married at South Royalton.

Lebanon, N. H., Aug. 22.—John Hosmer of this town was married in South Royalton, Vt., to Mrs. Laura Chase Eaton, formerly of West Lebanon. The marriage has attracted considerable interest on account of the fact that the bride is more than 52 years of age and the groom 66 years old. Mr. Hosmer had known his aged bride just one week when he decided that she was the only woman in the world for him. He hired a team and drove to South Royalton, Vt., where they were married. Mr. and Mrs. Hosmer arrived at their home here Sunday.

DEATH OF H. R. WING.

Longtime Burlingtonian Passes Away—Well Known Manufacturer.

Burlington, August 22.—H. R. Wing died last evening at his home on North Battery street after a lingering illness. He was born 73 years ago, and was more or less prominently identified with the political and business life of this city, being at one time an alderman. He manufactured shoe lasts for many years, retiring three years ago on account of failing health.

Five years ago he and Mrs. Wing celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Peculiar Accident to a Brakeman.

White River Junction, August 22.—Sunday morning at 5 A. M. Farbell of Concord, a freight brakeman on the Boston & Maine railroad, was descending from a car near the railroad bridge over the Connecticut, the rungs pulled out and he fell to the ground. A rib was broken and a piece of it punctured one of his lungs, producing hemorrhage. His condition is too serious to permit of his removal to a hospital at present. As the accident occurred on the West Lebanon side of the river he was taken to Dr. M. L. Woodman's, where he remains.

PAINTS

You could not ask for a better time to paint outside than now, as it rains just often enough to keep the dust down and paint dries very quickly, besides oil and lead, or mixed paint, will strike into the fibres of wood better when put on in warm weather. We have a strictly pure lead "Old Process" and pure linseed oil. Also "Town and County" brand of Mixed Paint, which we have sold for about twenty years. None better made. Requires much thinning and oil is low now.
